BushwickBK.com: the "villain" is alloted one line
BushwickBK.com: lazy BushwickBK.com: this is such shitty lay journalism BushwickBK.com: http://www.nydailynews.com/ny_local/2009/10/01/2009-10-01_unemployed_father_of_two_is_joining_marchers_rallying_for_paid_leave.html
BushwickBK.com: next steps BushwickBK.com: so where do you go frokm here me: he's not technically a lawyer me: two, plus the guy with Drug Reform Project who used to be with ACLU BushwickBK.com: anyway, so you got 3 lawyers?
BushwickBK.com: seems pertinent BushwickBK.com: and what was he treated for?
me: true
BushwickBK.com: yeah and the class-war lawyer at Make the Road is given space to espouse his whole platform on paid sick leave me: anyway, I've got another lawyer to serve in an informal advisory capacity in case we need her me: all of the rest is about the bill BushwickBK.com: yeah, I was actually just thinking, she is kind of a no-nonsense speaker me: and barerra is only given two lines me: she's just disputing his allegation me: well, her case only seems to require one line me: occasionally I'll get an e-mail from a fan who will offer some unspecified future assistance, like the other day with the National Center for Science Education me: I also have lots of contacts by way of my other projects BushwickBK.com: ah, right me: plus I'm helping to run this other PAC me: I've got experience in a lot of things by virtue of having lived an unusual life me: next column will announce formation BushwickBK.com: I'm already impressed BushwickBK.com: you have experience wiht this shit or what BushwickBK.com: whoa me: and figuring out if we should incorporate as non-profit or wait on that me: also deciding on name me: putting the word out that we're setting up so people can come to us
